Gladstone Park Community Centre held a defibrillator training day.

USERS of the Gladstone Park Community Centre can now rest easy knowing a defibrillator is on hand in the rare event of an emergency.

With many sports clubs and activity groups using the centre, Hume Council agreed to install the potentially life-saving machine.

Representatives from many of the user groups, along with members of the committee of management, attended a recent training session on the use of the life defibrillator.

Claire Wolny, secretary of the Gladstone Park Community Centre, thanked Cr Helen Patsikatheodorou for her support in the centre receiving a defibrillator.

"It is an asset for the Gladstone Park Community Centre users to know a defibrillator is on hand should it ever be needed in an emergency," she said.

Anyone wishing to enquire about using the centre phone 9330 3239.
